Looking Up a Site for the Pacific Coast Brane the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers—Yesterday's Doings.

The Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, who are on a tour of California to select the site for a branch home on the Pacific Coast, arrived here at 4 p.m. yesterday by special train in the Pullman St. Nicholas. They had reached Santa Barbara the afternoon before, intending to come on here at once, but the citizens prevailed on them to stop over. They were met at Santa Paula yesterday on their way down by Capt. J. Frankenfield and Maj. W. H. Bonsall, who

Upon arrival here they were met at the Southern Paelfac depot by members of the General Committee, who seated them and their ladies in carriages, when they were driven for a couple of hours through portions of the city in order that they might have an opportunity to get a hurried glimpse of the southern metropolis.
Having made a practical circuit of the city, the party pulled up at the Nadean about 6 o'clock, where they took rooms, and shortly afterward several of the members (the remainder being otherwise engaged) accepted the tender of a funch at illich's, which had been prepared under the direction of President Gernain of the Board of Trade. The party that sat down at the handsomely-spread table consisted of the following gentlemen: Gen. W. B. Frankin, Gov. John A. Martin, Gen. Martin T.

The "grass and water being good, and the camp a better one than the other place, if as one of the veterans declared, the party lingered for a couple of hours at the festive board, enjoying themselves to the fullest, and then, at about 8:30 o'clock, returned a few citizens, repaired to the parlor for

Gen. Franklin, president of the board, very briefly state 1 the object of the meeting. He said the board visits the coast for the purpose of establishing a branch home for disabled soliders. The home is to be established somewhere west of the Rocky Mountains, and by common consent it is agreed that California is the place for the home. The appropriation by Congress is only $150,000, and that sum will go but a little ways toward establishing the home. For that reason the board stands ready to see what donations the people have to offer in land and money.

Mayor Workman took the floor and thought the propositions should be made at once.

thought the propositions should be made as once.

Gen. Franklin was of the opinion that no one except the board, the Citizens' Committee and persons who had propositions should be present.

Gen. Black took the opposite view.

E. Germain was in favor of an open meeting, for the reason that the most of the propositions had been made in writing and had already been examined by the board. He said los Angeles has no secrets, and he thought all would be perfectly willing to make their offers public.

Col. Otis was of the opinion that the material contents and the said lost and the said lost angeles has no secrets, and he thought all would be perfectly willing to make their offers public.

propositions had been made in writing and had already been examined by the board. He said Los Angeles has no secrets, and he thought all would be perfectly willing to make their offers public.

Col. Otis was of the opinion that the matter should be left to the board to decide whether the meeting should be open or not. If the members wished to hold the meeting with closed doors, he had no dot.bt the bidders and citizens would willingly acquiesce.

Gen. Franklin said he was perfectly willing to abide by the wish of the citizens or the persons who wished to make verbal propositions.

Mr. Bonsail said he had made four propositions in writing, which are now before the board, and he was perfectly willing that the meeting should be open.

There were no further objections, and the meeting proceeded to business.

Capt. Blanding, secretary of the board, was called on to read the propositions he had received. He stated that they had all been read and explained to the board, but he went to his room for the documents. During his absence.

Col. Otis introduced Judge Van Dyke, who stated that he had a written proposition, but that one of the donors had not signed it, and that it would not be ready for the board until morning, but that he was ready to make a verbal statement. He thereupon offered the board 600 acres of land on the Santa Monica and Woolfskill ranchos, together with other valuable donations. He looked upon the land as the most desirable in the State, as it is well located and is considered among the choice spots in Southern California. The tract is well watered, and will grow anything in the world. The land will average from $800 to $400 per acre. "We know," said the Judge, that he site is well located. You know we have the best climate in the world. We will give you good land and we will throw the climate in. It is the very place for the old. The climate along the Santa Monica mountain-base, and for ten miles back, cannot be surpassed in the while world, not excepting Italy. I have the power from Senator Jones already handed in its proposition to Capt. Blanding.

The company's proposition is to donate the home 600 acres at Hesperia, on the Mojave River, in San Bernardino county, together with a valuable consideration in coin. They will furnish a plentiful supply of water with the land.

Prof. Wilhartitz said he wished to make the board an offer for a friend of his. He stated that his friend would donate 5000 acres of land on Catalena Island. He looked upon the Island as the very place for a home. He was closely questioned by Gen. Franklin, who thought the island was too far from the coast. The board, by general cone. It, refused to entertain the proposition after Gen. Brierly had described its beauties in rather a sarcastic manner, stating that it lacked population and fresh water. Mr. Bonsall spoke in favor of the Englewood site, which is four and a half miles from the city. He said it is favorably located and is well supplied with fine water. The tract stands on an eminence, and presents a very fine view.

Gen. Franklin asked if the land would be donated free of any incumbrance, and Mayor Workman was positive that the citizens would raise the necessary balance in money ($80,000) without any trouble.

Mr. Bonsall said he would insure the gift. The proposition is to give 300 acres of land for $60,000. That is, the Inglewood Company will donate $10,000, and the citizens of Los Angeles are expected to contribute $50,000. The same company offers to donate entright 300 acres in the same neighborhood.

D. M. Tomblin offers for Maxwell et als. 300 acres in San Gabriel Cañon, twelve miles from Los Angeles and one and one-half miles from El Monte station. This land is offered for sale at a good stiff rate. George M. Palne et al. offer the sell the board 160 acres two miles north of the Plaza. It contains five dwelling houses. The Arlington Heights Company offers through Mr. Bonsall 300 or more acres one and a half miles from the city limits, on Pico street. The company wants a good price for this trat.

The People vs. Darcy Slip Up Before Taney.

The case of George C. Lem against Chief of Police Darcy, for false imprisonment, came upsfor trial in Justice Taney's court yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. Darcy was represented by Assistant City Attorney Dunn, and the prosecution by As-ststant District Attorney Maccabee and G. Wiley Wells. Only two witnesses were examined by the prosecution—Lem, the plain-tiff in the suit, and ex-Officer Fitch. The lefense introduced no evidence. After defense introduced no evidence. After hearing the testimony Justice Taney dismissed the case on the ground of hissificient evidence. The main ground on which the dismissal was had was that the evidence of Lem was contradicted in several important points by that of Fitch, who was also a witness for the prosecution.

The full particulars of the case have been published heretofore in Time Times. In brief, it is as follows: Lem is a Christian Chinaman, and keeps an employment office on Upper Main street. One night in October last Chief Darcy took Lem in custody when he came to his office on business, went to the place of business of the said Lem, where he ransacked the premises and, it is alleged, broke open a number of trunks, in a search for stolen goods. He took a number of cancelled opium stamps which he found in one of the trunks, and locked Lem up all night. The next day the Chinaman gave bail, replevined his property, and on trial was discharged. He then prosecuted the Chief for false imprisonment, and the case was tried yesterday with the result above mentioned.

Have known Moore to capture them when both started off on a dead run, and made good their escape. He shadowed them, however, and when he got to a place where he could telephone he called for a police officer. He telephoned from No. 505 Spring street, and Mounted Officer Leverich started for the place, but when he reached it they had skipped. Shortly after this another telephonic message from No. 203 announced that the thieves were at that point, and Officer Van Luven started after them. He soon placed the two youngsters in the City Prison to await their trial before Justice Austin. They gave their names as Charles Maynard and Charles Brown. o capture them when both started off on

MRS. CRANE.

The Unfortunate Woman Sent to Stockton. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mary Crane, resterday arternoon Mrs. Mary Crane, the young woman who has attracted a good deal of attention during the past few weeks, was examined a second time by a commis-sion of lunacy and adjudged insane. Sev-eral witnesses were examined, and their testimony went to show that she has no home, and up to two weeks ago she and her little 4-year-old daughter spent their time wandering about the streets during the day wandering about the streets during the day and sleeping wherever night overtook them. The oblid was given to Mrs. Watson when Mrs. Crane was first arrested, and since then the unfortunate woman has shown signs of insanity. She was turned over to the Sheriff by the commission, and at 7:30 o'clock last evening she was sent to the Stockton Asylum in the custody of George Russell.

SAILORS' TROUBLES.

The Union at San Diego Growing Defiant.

The citizens of San Diego are greatly excited over the action of the Sailors' Union in that place. They went on board of an English ship and took three non-union men off, and swore that they would kill any one who attempted to interfere with them. The civil authorities were afraid to molest the civil authorities were afraid to molest the law-breakers, and yesterday they telegraphed to the United States Marshal in this city and asked for a deputy marshal at once. The Marshal telegraphed to James Russell, giving him a special deputyship, to act under the instructions of United States Commissioner Hubbard at San Diego. The dispatch to the Government officials here states that a good deal of trouble is anticipated. The trouble has grown out of the light which was started at San Pedro a few weeks ago.

The End of a Very Productive Official Investigation.

The Two Crooked Officers Have to Ster Down and Out.

Commissioners—That Promissery and the Part It Played

The Board of Police Com yesterday afternoon at 2 p.m and resum the consideration of the charges again Officers Alford and Moore. There was see delay in commencing business, owing the absence of Chief Darcy and the sho hand reporter, who were engaged in Justin's court. They soon arrived, nounced that Moore was confined to his bed by sickness and could not be present, but that the accused were seen to that the accused were ready to go on with the trial. The physician in attendance on Moore was present, and stated that his patients' condition was such it would not be prudent for him to be out, and he was then excused. Mr. Dunn stated that H. T. Gage would be associated with him in prosecution. Mayor Workman then as the attorneys to be as brief as possible the attorneys to be as one; as o'clock, and he had an engagement at 4 o'clock, and the taking of testimony proceeded. One of these, however, was the ludicrous mistake of the defense in subposaging as a witness Police Sergeant Loomis. a witness Fonce Sergeant Loomis, they intended to get a well-known paper man whose name is somewhat si The trial then proceeded to a clos resulted in the dismissal of the two a officers from the force.

I told him no, that I had given them money of my own-accord when they told me they were broke. Bosqui and the gentleman asked me about the note, and I showed it to them. The money was given as a loan. Moore and Alford said if they had the money they would treat. They did not spend the money in the house. I gave money once before to an officer who had a sick wife. Sworn: I identify the letters you show me. [Mr. Stephens here read letters from Chief Conway of San Francisco, Police Clerk Clark and others as to his good character, and Mr. Gage interrupted by stating that the man Clark was the man the Grand Jury at San Francisco were after on a charge of bribery and other matters, I heard Andrews testimony before the commission. We were in the Andrews and Boyd. Went to the Saratoga restaurant, took the drinks and cigars, as he said. Made no proposition to Boyd as to putting his woman on the streets to steal from grangers. Andrews was taken up by Moore. I afterward met Andrews, and he began crying about being persecuted. Moore said he would drive him out of the town. That is about all there is in it. I went into the private box with Boyd. Made a proposition to Boyd to act as a stool-pigeon. Never told him to put his woman on the street to steal and she would be protected. I did tell him about the Opera-house robbery, and offered him $40 to return the property. Was not drunk at the time. Had a few drinks of liquot, but was not under the influence. Never knew Witzky until he was introduced to me on Commercial street. He never knew me in San Francisco. I was first introduced to Witzky by Moore. We made an appointment to meet Witzky at the post-office. He told me he and Johnny Abbott were to start a pawnshop. He told me he would do what was right, and give information as to thieves if I would do the right whing. I only knew Witzky sa Herman. I was at Witzky's room one time in the afternoon with Moore. The statement is uiterly false that I was even in Witzky's room and smoked opium with his wife. I never went to the room but one time, and could not get in, as above stated. As to the Brown note, Mrs. Brown was in the habit of giving me information, and I always treated her. On the night in question I told her if I had the money I would treat her. She gave me $10, and I gave he against me.

After an attempt by Mr. Appel, of counsel for the defense, to introduce some testimony which was ruled out, Alford was asked if he thought there was any prejudice against him by the prosecuting witness, and replied that he thought they were all prejudiced replied that he thought they were all prejudiced.

Mr. Stephens then stated that they were ready to close the case, when Mr. Breed asked Alford if the note before the board was the one he gave Mrs. Brown, and he replied that it was, and again stated the facts in connection with it. In reply to further questions by Mr. Breed, he stated that he had been on the police force of San Francisco for three and a half years, and was dismissed for licking a brother office who deserved to be licked. He left in August of this year, and came on the force here a day or two after Darcy was appointed Chief. He had a wife and two children.

Moore had a wife, but no children.

not have given it. I did it on the half soft the moment.

Alford also said that he had given the $10 received from Mrs. Brown to a certain party for information about the San Bernardino robbers.

Mr. Stephens: That is all we have to offer, except the testimony of Moore, which is substantially the sume as that given by Alford, and is a general denial of the offenses charged by Boyd, Abbott and the Witzkys.

Dunn: We admit that such is the ind will consider Moore's statement idence as a general denial of everycation?

Mr. Stephens: Moore admits that he has been drunk, but never while on duta and never at a time when it interfered with his duties as an officer.

Mr. Stephens stated that the defense had closed their case, and asked ten minutes in which to argue on the evidence. This was granted, and he was about to begin, when dr. Dunn stated that the prosecution had one more witness whom they wanted to introduce.

was then placed on the stand and sworn. He testified as follows: I have been attorney for Andrews and defended him on a charge of vagrancy. There was no case against him, and I so told Moore. I believe that he was arrested for the purpose of extorting meney from him, and I have no doubt that if we had not been interfered with, by this time we would have had both these men [Alford and Moore] under arrest for extortion.

This closed the case on both sides, so far as the taking of testimony was concerned, and Mr Stephens addressed the board in behalf of his clients, and made a savage attack on the characters of the witnesses for the prosecution, literally "burning them up." Mr. Stephens applied every epithet in his extensive vocabulary to them, and wound up by asking the Commissioners not to disgrace these men on such evidence as had been presented, but to restore them to their places on the force without prejudice.

Mr. Gage followed. He said the evidence plainly showed that there had been an attempt at extortion, and that, if it had not been for the efforts of himself and others, they would have been saccessful. As to the character of the prosecution's witnesses, these were the sort of people that these men had attempted to blackmail. Of course, they would have been successful. As to the character of the prosecution's witnesses, these were the sort of people that these men had attempted to blackmail. Of course, they would have been successful. As to the character of the prosecution, it would be impossible to secure a conviction in any similar case.

Brief additional arguments were made by Messrs. Stephens and Dunn, and the case closed.

The room was then cleared of all persons but the Commissioners and Clerk, and the board went into executive session.

DISMISSED FROM THE FORCE.

note given by Alford to Mother Brown, and which was secured by and first published in THE TIMES, was regarded as the most convincing evidence brought out at the trial. It was, of course, documentary, and there was no going behind the returns. Alford's explanation in regard to the matter did not have much weight. The fact that it was a promissory note, made payable thirty days after date, was regarded as suspicious. The charge of intoxication, as well as the damaging admissions of the men themselves, were also against them. Sympathy was felt for both men on account of their being married and having families, but the charges were of so grave a nature, and the proof so conclusive, that there was no alternative left the board but the peremptory dismissal of both officers from the force.

You wouldn't think that anything new could be written about such a homely subject as a barrel, but a decidedly new departure is to be chronicled. The barrel of commerce is made by splitting the log ints bolts are placed in a large vat, subjected to an intense steam heat for twelve hours, and then, while hot, are cut up into staves. After five or six months of air-drying, the staves are ready for the listing (or joining) machine. This process completed, the staves are in proper condition for the cooper, who trusses them (arranges them in barrel form) and cuts the chine and croze, after which they are ready for heads and hoops. Shaving, planing and crozing machines are used in the manufacture of common barrels, and in each barrel there are sixteen staves. The new barrel is made of two staves. In an establishment where they are manufactured this week, I saw an elm log, 31 inches long and 24 inches in diameter, resting in a steam wat. A crane, operated by steam power, grappled the log and swung it into position in the machine. This wonderful piece of mechanism clamps the log exactly in the center and immediately begins a motion of fifty revolutions to the minute. When the log commences to revolve in the embrace of the machine a knife is fed directly on to the outside of the log, cutting off a continuous sheet the proper length and thickness of a stave. Is this way the entire log is utilized as stave material deept about six inches of the heart, which is practically worthless. On the opposite side of the cutting-knife, and revolving upon the surface of these cylinders is a knife, which is forced into the solid log, cutting off a centinuous and solid stave material. In the surface of these cylinders is a knife, which is forced into the solid log, cutting off a sheet, which falls on to a conveyor in the perfect form of a half barrel. This half barrel, which has just dropped from the log, is completely chined, crozed and equalized. Its external form is superior to any work which the most expert coper can execute. It is

California and New York.

California and New York.

[Gath in the Enquirer.]

I asked Gov. Stanford how he compared the new West and California to his native State of New York.

"There is not very much of New York State to support the great population it contains. My native Mohawk Valley is quite a narrow valley compared to even this Santa Cruz Valley, and you might put almost the whole State of New York in the San Joaquin Valley. But the remarkable thing about the United States is the uniform fertility of the great plateau which commences about Little Falls, N. Y., and proceeds onward till you get far west of the Missouri River. Such an Such an extent of splendid land probably is not to be found anywhere else on the globe, and two-thirds of the United States lies west of the Mississippi River. When we came first to California we supposed that the agricultural resources of our State never would amount to much, and that we should always be miners. Now we raise all the wheat we consume ourselver, and export wheat enough for 10,000,06, people besides. There are in this State export wheat enough for 10,000,06, people besides. There are in this State only 89,000 persons anywhere among the agricultural population. Out of that number we may suppose that there are not more than 10,000 adults actually that number we may suppose that there are not more than 10,000 adults actually in the fields. By the aid of machinery they reliably supply our own 1,000,000 population and export wheat for 10,000,000. Oregon was considered to be all desert in the eastern parts, and now they are raising 400,000 tons of wheat up there on what was supposed to be a rock desert. When the San Joaquin Valley, through combination, gets water upon it, I expect that it will supply wheat for 50,000,000 more. The development of the railroads out here has been worth all this to the Government."

als to the Chronicle from Wash-under date of November 27th, the following information our Congressman and his in-about our Congressman and his inmated opponent:

"Joseph D. Lynch of Los Angeles arrived here today. He proposes to see that his contest for the seat held by Gen. Vandever is begun and carried on vigorously. He said today that he proposed to stay here two months to pash his contest. If he does not succeed in hat time in getting his case decided he proposes to leave his address here and to home and take charge of his paper.
His lawyer here has filed a remarkable prief for him. It is a masterpiece of the purchase of will show the general character of its contents. As to the charge of the purchase of votes made by Gen. Vandever, the brief says: "To the array of fraud and political depravity on the part of his opponent, so fully established by the contestant, the respondent, the returned member from his Congressional district, opposed the charge of the purchase of votes by some of the subordinate candidates and their adherents of the Democratic party. Perhaps it is as well to admit that there is some evidence strongly hinting at such a pernetious course, and if it affords the respondent any consolation we are willing to comeede that his scavengers, with some more cunning and adroitness, could have raked out of the sewerage a few more commercial transactions of the same character.

with some more cunning and adroitness, could have raked out of the sewerage a few more commercial transactions of the same character.

"There is a slum pertaining to every political organization. The beautiful city of Venice has its foundation in serge and mud. Pate & foi gras, the most excellent of viands, proceeds from diseased livers; but we urge, with some confidence, that the contestant should not be held responsible for the trafficking proclivities of his political associates. Because Lucifer raided somewhat in the skies, there was certainly no taint upon the heavenly hosts who did not participate in the rebellion. Then, again, the political trader in this section is very apt to sacrifice the head of the ticket for his subordinate behoof. And once more again, though we have scrutinized the respondent's testimony with the utmost care, we fail to discover in it the most remote connection of the contestant with any bargain founded on a peculiary consideration, and we take the responsibility of the immediate withdrawal of Joseph D. Lynch from the present existing contest upon the slightest proof that, directly or indirectly, he has improperly disbursed in the last canvass, or about any of the various polls of the Congressional district, a single roupee, or tomaun, or doubloon, or moldore, or cmaranedi, or bob, or tizzie, or tester, or the most diminutive amount of American currency or coin.

"The effort of the respondent in this diminutive amount of American currency or coin.

"The effort of the respondent in this regard has been a signal and supreme failure. Say there has been some chaffering and buying of votes by some Democratic candidates, have not the tables been effectually turned by the rebuttal proof that the Republicans have indulged in like commercial enterprise? The frozen truth is, in the sporting language of the day, 'Honors are easy,' and, as good old Sam Johnson was accustomed to say, 'There's an end on't.'"

CONGRESSMAN WANDEVER.

CONGRESSMAN VANDEVER. yesterday morning, and has taken up quarters at Willard's Hotel. He said quarters at Willard's Hotel. He said that Southern California needed a great deal of assistance from the Government. Thus far it has been almost wholly neglected by this Administration. He complained especially of the poor postal facilities at Los Angeles, San Diego, San Buenaventura and elsewhere in the southern country. He said the citizens of Los Angeles had to subscribe money to enable the postmaster at that place to employ sufficient labor to distribute the letters. He said the gas company had threatened to turn off the gas at the postofice, and the citizens had to pay the gas bill. Postmaster-General Vilas also refused to pay the water rates at the same office. This policy Gen. Vilas has pursued to make a record of economy in his administration, which he has succeeded in doing, but at great expense and inconvenience to the public. Gen. Vandever also said that expense and inconvenience to the public. Gen. Vandever also said that there was no other part of the country which so much needs an appropriation for the improvements of its harbors as Southern California. The building of rallroads along the coast has developed many seaports, towns whose harbors should be improved at once. Gen. Vandever proposes to devote himself to securing as large an appropriation for Southern California as possible. He has some experience in Congress, and takes up the work like one familian with it. Although he is a man of 70 or more, he is active, energetic, of trim, soldierly bearing, and possesses a great deal of sagacity.

CREMATED.

Horrible Punishment Given to Two Miserable Rufflans.

Miserable Ruffians.

A special to the New York World from Montgomery, Ala., November 8, says: A private letter received here yesterday from Dale county gives an account of the cremation of two colored men who had assaulted Miss Fralish, a respectable young white lady. M'ss Fralish, who is the daughter of one of the leading farmers of the county, who is alone at home a few nights ago, the rest of the family being abroad on business. Two colored men walked up to the gate and said they wanted something to eat, as they had been traveling a long distance and were hungry. The young lady, not dreaming of ill intent, told them to go around into the back yard, where she would give them some bread. No sooner had she turned her back to reënter the house than a big black hand was clasped around her mouth, and she was lifted up and carried into one of the rooms. When the family returned they found the girl in a faint, from which she was with difficulty brought to consciousness. Her story set the neighbors wild, and parties of men went out in all directions, running down the public roads and scouring the woods. One of the parties ran down two men near Brundige, whose manner was such as to confirm suspicion of their guilt. They were taken to the Fralish residence, and as soon as the young lady set her eyes upon them she cried: "They are the men; their faces Fraish residence, and as soon as the young lady set her eyes upon them she cried: "They are the men; their faces are burned into my soul so that I can never forget them." The negroes cowered before her gaze and admitted cowered before her gaze and admitted their guilt. A trial followed and the people decided that the two men should be burned to death. A log pile was built upon the side of the public road, and the negroes were chained each between two heavy logs. Then the four logs pere chained together, so that the wildest contortions of the wretches could not shake them. A fire was kindled, which soon blazed up and enveloped the bodies of the victims. Their cries were most pitiful as the flames burned into their flesh. The cries grew fainter, the fire cooled down, and only ashes were left to tell the horrible story.

THE WOOLSTEENS.

More About Their Residence in 'Frisco.

Up in the Northern Gitrus Belt they are getting considerably interested in the Woolsteen case, and reporters are digging at it assiduously. Yesterday's Examiner says:

"Yes, indeed, I recognized the Woolsteen girls the moment I set eyes on their pictures in the Examiner," said Mrs. Wood, who lives at No. 312 Hyde street, yesterday afternoon in an interview with a reporter. "I was living on Webster street, near California, last year when they came and rented rooms from me under the names of Hattie and Minnie Wolfenfeld. They were two of the quietest and most ladylike young women you could expect to meet anywhere. They never had any company in their rooms and appeared to be most circumspect in their conduct. They stayed with me a month or six weeks, and when they went away it was done without hurry or excitement, and I supposed they were returning to their home, which I understood them of say was in Illinois. I never heard anything about the theft of the diamonds till I read of it in the Examiner, and I was shocked beyond measure, it appeared so absolutely improbable. Isn't it dreadful!—and the murder, too! The whole story is bewilderingly horrible."

The fact of Mrs. Wood being laid up with a dislocated kneecap and suffering considerable pain, was considered a sufficient excuse for making the interview short as possible. Enough was elicited, however, to identify the girls and establish the fact of their, having resided in this city, which they for merly denied. The first admission of merly denied. The first admission of the content of the more diameter and many company denied the horribus and secular history. The fact of their, having resided in this city, which they for merly denied. I then observed the reason why he always followed the old tactics of saluting before giving the word of command. He had ingeniously pasted in his hat the various orders, and when he took off his hat and held it out at arm's length in froat of him he could readily read what it contained. I don't know if any one but myself discovered his ciever plan, but they lost a great deal if they didn't."

PRESA!

The Beautiful Swiss Village on Lake Como BEING REPRODUCED IN SAN DIEGO.

The most novel thing yet undertaken in the development of this southern country is now being done at LA PRESA, nine miles from San Diego. The plan is to reproduce in that delightful spot the counterpart of the celebrated Swiss village on Lake Come, in Northern Italy. To this end a railroad is being built to the place, and a fine modern hotel is to be creeted at once. The situation is most delightful; far enough removed from the sea to the best of soil, LA PRESA is just the place to invest for a quick turn with big profits. PRESA is sure to grow rapidly, as it has all the elements, to attract a select class

MISS MATHER AS "ROSALIND."-It must needs be an education to the duilest eye, an inspiration to the slowest heart, to see Miss Mather in the "exquisite fooling" of the boy-girl "Rosalind." No,woman but a beautiful one should dare to attempt the part, and it should also be beauty of the certain type which is Miss Mather's especial po ecial possession, a spirited head, "running ver with curls," the biggest innocent-arch over with curls," the biggest innocent-arch eyes, a coquetish nose, a trifle tip-tilted one, a short upper lip and a cupid's-bow of a mouth—all this set nobly upon a fair body and arrayed in garments that are little short of symphonic. True, that this is not acting, but, as it happened, was accompanied by it, full of fire, humor and grace, and with a wonderfully distinct and rippling diction that added tenfold to the wondrous wit and charm of the text. The pining diction that added tentoid to the wondrous wit and charm of the text. The unfortunate who has not seen Miss Mather as "Rosalind" has lost an opportunity. Mr. Paulding, as "Orlande," is not so satisfactory as in a more tragic and sorrowaful part, like "Romeo." His strong face and ability for intensity without rant are his greatest merits, and naturally are obliterated to a great extent in the sentimental sighs and follies of the solely love-sick youth.

Milnes Levick, as the melancholy "Jacques," deserved and received his meed of genuine appreciation and applause. He was perfectly at ease, and gave to the well-worn lines of "Jacques's" solliquoy new nobility and strength of meaning.

"Natural Gas packed the Opera-house often that ordinary jokes bring from them only a smile of pity, taughed at Donnelly, Girard and Gilbert's funny business until they cried. In the second act this trio convulsed everybody with the actors' entertainment. Like Hoyt's plays, Natural the ability of the cast rather than upon any heavy work put in by the author. It savor a little of Esmeralda in its ending, so far as any resemblance can exist in two performances of directly opposite kind."

Frank Toal.

It was reported with great positiveness upon the streets last night that Frank Toal, one of the worst brutes that ever disgraced this or any other community, is out of San Quentin and back in this city. Diligent search by Times reporters, however, failed to find Toal. If he is out thus soon it is very curious. He was sentenced August 21, 1885, to five years in San Quentin, and even that sentence was so light in proportion to his crime as to scandalize the public. In spite of the credit swindle, it is hardly in the books for a prisoner to get 60 per cent off his sentence by good behavior.

Toal's crime was cutting his long-tortured wife nearly to pieces with a pocket knife. By a miracle she recovered from the sixteen hideous gashes, and Toal was sent up for five years on the same day that the same judge sentenced a $60 thief to eight years. ne of the worst brutes that ever disgrace and maintain the same for the space of four months.

Senator Jones, although opposing the resolution, seconded it for the purpose of bringing it before the board.

Mr. Byington believed that if any exhibition was made in Los Angeles the southern counties should be invited to participate in it. The board was a State board and not restricted to any one section.

The question of cost was advanced by many members, who seemed to think that the end did not justify the means.

On motion of Mr. Mills the consideration of the resolution was made the special order for next Tuesday, and the meeting adjourned until that day.

Previous to adjournment it was announced that meetings will be held in Loomis and Auburn, Placer county, on Saturday, to organize local boards of trade. The different boards of trade 4nd Napa county were reported as having consolidated and having appointed M. M. Estee their joint representative.

Attempt to Wreck a Ship with Dynamite-Another Sailors' Outrage -Constable Gedney Out on Bail-Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—[Special.] The heavy explosion at the Santa Fé wharf last night remained a mystery until this morning, when it was discovered that the American bark Otago had a hole torn through her starboard bow by a dynamite bomb. The explosion occurred at about 8 o'clock, and, although the vessel was violently shaken by the concussion, the night was dark and the sailors could not learn th cause. During the day Capt. Collins of the Otago had an altercation with Capt. Nelson of the International steamer Carlos Pacheco of the International steamer Carlos Pacheso, the trouble arising from a question of privileges at the wharf, at which both vessels were moored side by side. Collins applied a vile epithet to Nelson, and reports the latter as saying, "I'll fix you for this!"

Collins said, "Come on and fix me now."
Nelson rejoined, "No, I'm not ready for it now."

The conversation took place at 6 p.m. 7:40 the steamer cast off for her regular trip south to Ensenada, and just at that tima the explosion took place. Capt. Collins believes that the bomb was thrown from the steamer, but has not the slightest trace yet of the identity of the miscreant.

The Anarchist Testifies Vigorously in His Own Behalf.

But Goes to Pieces Under the Fire of and America - Monday Set for Hear a Motion for a New Trial

By Telegraph to The Times.

New Youx, Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Johann Most testified in his own behalf this morning. He denied that he threatened the execution of any one. He addressed his hearers at the Koemer's Hall meeting as fellow-"citizens," and not "anarchista." The speech, he said, lacked the threats and violent language which he is charged with having uttered.

"On the cry of revenge being uttered in the audience," he went on, "I said: "Not now; capitalists are arrayed against us. We are here to accuse, and I accuse Grinnell, Gary and the judges of murder."

He had described Powderly as instrumental in the execution by not taking sides with the condemned men. He was not sure he said he would give ten years of his life to know the hangman and that he would strangle him. He had never said that for every man killed in Chicago 500 would be slaughtered.

Most said that he was a communistic Anarchist, and assumed the oratorical style which had distinguished the first half of his direct testimony. When Mr. Nicoll, on cross-examination, asked him to state his views: "We did not fight against any particular government," said Most. "We do not especially fight the Government of the United States. We are opposed to government as such. We think the power held by the Government should be abolished."

Most said that the miling classes were in rebellion, and it was possible that even what the people had—the Constitution of the United States—would be taken away. His motto was: "Education for orranization; organization to put down the rebellion of the capitalistic class."

Most admitted that he had been invest.

MOST GETS EXCITED Most admitted that he had been imprisoned for treason in Austria in 1869, imprisoned in Germany in 1872 for calling the soned for treason in Austria in 1869, imprisoned in Germany in 1872 for calling the Emperor a slaughterer, also in 1881 for a speech made in Berlin. In England he had served elighteen months imprisonment for applauding the killing of the Czar. He declined answering whether he believed modern explosives necessary to carry out his ideas, also whether he advised the manufacturing of explosives and an electric battery for exploding dynamite at the distance that-shall be best for speedy results in exploding into crowds; also whether gas pipe, with screw caps, preduces such brilliant results as fruit jars filled with benzine, in which a medium glass filled with powder tightly closed, has been first placed, and which, on busting, would scatter flery benzine.

Witness became greatly excited at questions, and said vehemently: "What have they to do with my speech at Kraemer's Hall?" The Judge allowed the questions. The prosecution offered evidence of a previous indictament of Most, and the record of his trial and conviction, showing that the book of revolutionary warfare was not introduced in evidence.

The arguments of counsel followed, occupying two hours.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE.

Dying two hours.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE.

Judge Cowing, in his charge to the jury, said that Herr Most was not to be truef for his past life, but for the speech at Kraemer's Hall. "Our love of free speech and the freedom of the press," he continued, "which has made us do away with many restrictions of free speech, does not mean that an individual has a right to slander his neighbor or to incite riot. We do not tolerate license. We encourage freedom. We marvel that in this ceuntry where every one is free, there should be such men as Anarchists, and ask what more they want. Revolutions have come from injustice, but never from justice." After going over the testimony carefully he said that he failed to find anything in the speech of Most, as he gave it at the time, that came within the statute.

land grants. He says:

"After my appointment I became convinced that the public domain was being diverted from legitimate purposes and converted to objects repugnant to the theory on which the land system is based. Apart from the methods of illegal appropriation of the public domain through the perversion of several laws for acquiring title, I became convinced that the administration of Congressional land grants to wagon roads and railroads gave rise to enormous abuses. Congress made grants exceeding became convinced that the administration of Congressional land grants to wagon roads and railroads gave rise to enormous abuses. Congress made grants exceeding in area half a dozen of the largest and most populous States and porvided for any losses of lands within the granted limits, being satisfied by selecting lands within the adjoining limits, thus nearly doubling the area of the original grants. Under these acts the land department has withdawn from the public domain not only the granted limits, but lands within the indemnity limits at the request of the grantee companies. This enormous quantity of public land awaited the convenience of corporations constructing their roads. This legislation gave an incurable wound to the homestead schemes, what was originally designated as the abodes of domestic happiness for an industrious, thrifty people. Notwithstanding the indemnity withdrawals, few companies if any constructed roads within the time prescribed as the express conditions of the grants. Maps of 'probable,' 'general,' 'designated' and 'definite' routes were saked and almost immediately granted until the States and Territories were gridined with railroad grants and indemnity limits overlapping each other, so that settlers seeking homes, claimed by one or more roads, for the sake of peace, consented to purchase from the company a great deal of land, of which the company has neither legal nor moral right. The hardship produced upon the couters was greatly increased by the bold schemes of companies' agents, claiming lands where no title attached, the Congressional surveys not having been made, and the unfortunate settler discovering, when the surveys were made, that the company has neither legal nor moral right. The hardship produced upon the open sold schemes of companies' agents, claiming lands where no title attached, the Congressional surveys not having been made, and the unfortunate settler discovering, when the surveys were made, that the company has neither legal nor moral right. The hardship produced u deneral, who declared the withdrawal legal, and that Miller could acquire no title to the tract claimed.

"Recogniz ing the correctness of this desiston, but seeking the injustice to this settler and hundreds of others similarly situated, the Prosident directed that the department is should protect settlers if possible, After years of waiting Congress failed to empower the department to make the necessary surveys whereby some grants might be adjusted. No immediate prospect of such surveys is in sight, but a law was passed March 5, 1887, whereby the Secretary of the Interior was directed to immediately adjusted. No immediately adjusted as the respect of such surveys is in sight, but a law was passed March 5, 1887, whereby the Secretary of the Interior was directed to immediately adjust each railroad land grant made by Congress to aid the construction of a railroad. After long consideration, with a desire to recognize every right of the corporations, I came to the conclusion that if the department is clothed with authority to make indemnity within sound discretion and not is a matter of legal obligation; that the same sound discretion which justified said withdrawals now demanded peremptorily in the public interest a speedy revocation of the same, and the most effective way of expediting the adjustment of land grants in the interest of all concerned was to permit the public to enter into competition with the companies for whose benefits the withdrawal was made to show cause by a certain day why said withdrawal's should no' be revoked. Some of the companies failed to show cause. Others filed answers assenting to the revocation, as they received the satisfaction of the grant. Others objected that the revocation was illegal and a violation of chartered rights. Briefs were filed, and the arguments of course were arefully considered.

"On August 13, 1887, my views were fully expressed in the decision of the case of the Atlantie and Pacific Company. Two days hater the orders withdrawing the lands were restored to the r violation of cuartered nights. Average and the arguments of counsel were curefully considered.

"On August 13, 1887, my views were fully expressed in the decision of the case of the Atlantic and Pacific Company. Two days atter the orders withdrawing the lands within the indemnity limits, and reserving the same from settlement, were revoked and lands were restored to the public domain and settlement: First, in the cases of two companies which had not answered; second, in those which answered and assented; third, in the case of companies which set up defenses coming within the rulings of the foregoing opinion on Congressional grants to the following railroad companies: flastings and Dakota, St. Paul, Northern Pacific, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba, St. Paul, and Winona. All the available force of the Commissioner of the General Land Office are at work adjusting road grants, and are proceeding as rapidly as possible with the same. The amount of land restored to the public domain through orders revoking indemnity withdrawals is stated by the Commissioner of the General Land Office as 21,235,600 acres. I beg to refer to what has been said aiready in relation to the imperative necessity of an appropriation for surveys, without which a com-

A Large Dry-Goods Firm Forced to Go Into Liquidation. New York, Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The well-known firm of Brown, Wood & Kingman, dry-goods commission merchants, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, has gone into liquidation. William L. Brown, in announcing the trouble, said that his father, who was the capitalist of the concern, had wearied of carrying it on longer. The stringency in the money market also had something to do with the firm's troubles. They had gone on a $5,000,000 indorsement a few months ago, but a large part of that had been taken care of, and the rest would be. ### JAKE SHARP.

The Court of Appeals Grants Him a New Trial. ALBANY (N. Y.), Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The Court of Appeals rendered a decision in Jacob Sharp's case this morning reversing the decision of the lower court and ordering a new trial. The decision says: Objection was made to cer-tain items of testimony in the trial which were material, and without which, it is tain items of testimony in the trial which were material, and without which, it is claimed, a conviction might not have been obtained. First, counsel for the prosecution proved that the defendant was examined as a witness before a committee of the State Senate, appointed to investigate among other things the methods of the Broadway Railroad Company in obtaining such consent, and also the action in respect thereto of the board of aldermen which granted it, or any number who voted for the same and ou that occasion gave testimony, which counsel for the prosecution claim was irrefutable evidence of his participation and complicity in the commission of a crime. This testimony the projecution offered in evidence. Its admission on the trial was objected to on the ground that it was given under privileged circumstances, that defendant was compelled to attend and testify, and that evidence thus elicited was not competent upon the trial of a person where the subject under inquiry was that about which he was then interrogated. The court decides that the admission of this testimony was contrary to section 79 of the Penal Code, and therefore error. Another error was found in the examination of the witness ex-Alderman Miller. The court also holds that error was committed in admitting evidence of the detectives regarding the absence of Maloney & Ca., and their absence in Canada. Admission of Phelps's testimony was also promounced error.

New York, Nov. 29.—When the news of the granting of a new trial to Jake Sharp was announced to him he manifested no emotion whatever, receiving the news with that stolid indifference to all things which has characterized him since his incarceration.

NOW ON THE MARKET!

The Prices of Lots Range from $350 to $450.

TERMS OF SALE - One-third cash, one-third in six months, one-third in one year.

This winter will be a repetition of last. Outside property will advance rapidly, and those who buy now at bedrock prices will not only reap the benefit of all improvements that go to enhance values, but will get full advantage of owners' advances which will occur from time to time during the winter. We start this new town off with the following advantages: TIt is only four miles from the city.

The Southern Pacific Railroad runs through the tract, and depot and side tracks will be built at once.

The Los Angeles and Glendale Motor Railroad, now about completed, runs within 600 feet of this townsite. The Pasadena Boulevard, now an assured fact, is laid out immediately through the center of the tract.

The San Fernando County Road runs along the north line. There is no finer valley in Southern California. Abundance of water, good mountain air. Parties desiring cheap suburban homes, with rapid and frequent communication with the city, cannot do better than to buy here. Theusands of people will be here this fall seeking homes, and will overflow to outside points for lack of accommodations. Remember how outside property advanced last winter and profit by the experience. Buy early.

FRANKLIN & KÜGEMANN,

A special correspondent of the Philadelphia Times says:

We passed on within the fort. At the door of the first room were two Indian women, seated on the floor, playing cards. Our civilization has taught them this. They ceased their game as we came up, and smiled at the party. The soldier with us could not interpret, so our conversation was limited to a few signs.

Next we met a woman with a baby swinging on her back. She stopped to let us examine the little fellow. They have a most remarkable "instrument of torture," as we dubbed it, for carrying the paposes, until they can walk. It is of wood, shaped something like and stranged, from its neck down to its heels, and hands straight down by its less, on that the child is placed and strapped, from its neck down to its heels, and hands straight down by its less, so that the little one can move its head only. This arrangement has a band of leather which the mother passes around her forehead. When busy at anything she stands it up against the wall or a post! Of all the bables we saw there we did not hear one whimper. The women are very friendly and seemed pleased at the attention paid them and their children by visitors, laughing a great deal and showle hands and his manner was almost affable. I was much better done by Americans now. We soon reached Geronimo's quarters. He sat on a chair near his door, and one of his squaws was on the ground near him, while a baby, just walking, played about his feet. Within the room on the bed were seated a little boy and girl jabbering away for all they were worth, who quite scorned all our efforts to attract them to us. Geronimo was more suave than any Indian man I have ever seen. He smiled and shook hands and his manner was almost affable. I was much swing larged about his feet. Within the room on the bed were seated a little boy and girl jabbering away for all they were worth, who quite scorned all our efforts to attract them to us. Geronimo was more suave than any Indian man I have ever seen. He smiled and shook hands and his play with his child. One of his squaws died last week, but he didn't mourn very long.

We had been told that Natchez was more haug'nty than all the others, but I think we caught him on his red-letter day, he was so polite. He is the finest looking of any of the chiefs, and his face is more honest. Geronimo has a blander smile, but would never inspire confidence. Natchez's hands and feet are very small. He stood up for us to look at him. He is long and lithe of limb, and looks as if his streagth were quick and nervous rather than of the enduring kind. His hatred of Geronimo does not seem to abate. In fact, the old diplomat, as he is called here, is in bad odor with the other chiefs. They hold him accountable for their surrender, and have never forgiven him. They are very chary about associating with him.

A great bity came over me as we turned to go. I thought of their free life in New Mexico; their hatred of the pale faces of the East. Here they were, shut within four narrow walls, subject to their despised conquerors and their equally hated modes of life. I wondered they did not rise in their wrath and slaughter the handful of men who have them in charge. But life seems sweet to all human beings and we soon learn prudence if the penalty of recklessness be death.

The storms of a few weeks since terrified them. The "big water" inspires them with an awe and dread that nothing else does, and it was an infinite relief to them when the heavens cleared and the waters were again calm. The booming of the surf, which sounded like the play of artillery far in the city, and the water were again calm. The booming of the surf, which sounded like the play of artillery far in the city, and the waters were again calm. The and the waters were again calm. The booming of the surf, which sounded like the play of artillery far in the city, filled them with unspeakable terror. What will become of them? Will their lives be spent in prison? It is a knotty question, and one which the Government has not yet solved. They are not quite the heroes of Cooper, and their love of dirt and treachery are repulsive; but they are men, and men of so different birth and rearing we cannot force them quite yet into our narrower grooves.

Nurses Decorated.
[Harper's Bazar.]
Three famous nurses were recently decorated by Queen Victoria with the new order of the Boyal Red Cross for services with the British army in South frica and Egypt. Sister Emma Duram, upon whom Queen Victoria con-rred the decoration of the Royal Red ross, has done good service in the ursing world. She joined the St. han's House Nursing Sisterhood in nursing world. She joined the St. John's House Nursing Sisterhood in September, 1872, and was trained at King's College Hospital. At the end of her three years' engagement she went to the Universities' Elssion, Zanzibar, East Central Africa, to work amongst the released slaves under Bishop Steere. In 1877 she returned to England and continued nursing until 1876, when she was sent out by the Stafford House South African Aid Committee as superintendent, working at Ladysmith for the Zulu war and at Newcastle for the Sikikuni campaign. She returned to England in 1880, and did nursing in France, Germany, Italy, Sicily, Belgium, and Switzerland till 1885, when she became a volunteer for H. R. H. the Princess of Wales' Branch of the National Aid Sconety, working at Suez, and also in charge of the National Aid steamer Alexandria, bringing down English and Egyptian sick and wounded from Assouan to Cairo. Sister Edith King worked also at Ladysmith and Newcastle, under the auspices of the Stafford House South African Aid Committee, and was for three 'years a nursing sister at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Netley. Sister King was trained at Westminster Hospital.

Sister Louisa Jane Mackay has

Sister Louisa Jane Mackay has served at Netley, Woolwich, and at Canterbury. Sister Mackay went through the Boer campaign in South Africa, where she had hard work getting the wounded from the front, and had rather a rough time. On her return Sister Mackay served a year in Egypt where she nursed a great many severe cases of typhold fever, being recommended for the Royal Red Cross for her services there.

Fair Hands at the Mandelin.

| Yomen are worse than the ancient tenians in their love for a new enians in their love for a new g. What they love and swear by season they will abandon the next, nothing that is old, from a bonnet carpet, finds favor in their eyes. I have been supported in the country had one go by a yellow ribbon about her and was thumping the strings and ng darky melodies with all her t and main. Most of them never ed to play at all; they took a les r two, learned the scales and fragge of about three tunes, and then it languished until they would read in the London letters of how Natics Yznaga aved a dull evening and delighted the Frince of Wales by throwing herself into the breach with her banjo, and then the young women took to earnest study again for about three weeks. But it has gone to hopeless limbo at last, beyond revival. Its successor is a mandolin.

No self-respecting girl is without one. With blue 3r copper-colored ribbons, instead of yellow, it is a dainty thing, all shell and pearl. She studies assiduously under the tutlelage of the picturesque, dark-eyed Italian, Sig. Ricca, and learns from him how to grasp and manipulate the little oval bit of tortoise shell with which the strings are swept. To be thoroughly good form, the young woman musical has to arm herself with a vinuccia, which means an instrument manufactured by the mandolin-maker in ordinary to her Majesty the Queen of Italy, and these toys come high, some of the most luxurious ones costing several hundred dollars. The mandolin is melon-shaped, and has eight strings, or rather four couples, and tuned in fifths. The music is made by sweeping these strings with a bit of shell held between the thumb and two first fingers of the right hand. It requires an exquisit lightness and smoothness of touch, and a firm, supple wrist to brush the strings so that the music will be both soft and even, but when it is well played the music is charming, and it is an instrument with far better capacity than the banjo.

Mrs. Willie Astor is a good per-being ministers' wives have not become a recognized profession among the feminine population. Other students are not so much given to matrimony, because there is no other profession in which a wife is such a necessary article of one's stock in trade, but separading the sexes is not going to hinder lovemaking. The chances are that in the coeducational school the student masculine will still pass his leisure hours with the society girls of the college town, while the student feminine will attend strictly to her own business, which is that of beating him in the classroom—she having, as a Harvard oarsman put it, nothing else to take up her mind—if she can. If it turns out differently, it would be hard to bring forward from fact or theory any reason why a college marriage should not be quite as wise and quite as happy as most other kinds.

A rumor was afloat on the street last night—doubtless traceable to the fool palayerings of a morning sheet—that the Anti-Saloon party had decided to pull down its ticket and indorse the entire Republican ticket, including Colonizer Rartingame. The story was fiction on the face of it; for the Anti-Saloon party isn't built that way. The Times took the trouble, however, to telephone out to Dr. J. P. Widney. The doctor was abed—the hoar being late—but roused from his slumbers long enough to say in his straight anglo-Saxon: "I simply wish to say that it is alle.
